P. B. S.

The Greyhounds are back after their trip North and still Little Utz can't understand why they had to pick a week with so many fast days. Well, it was a good trip anyway.

Why not make a night of it at the Baltimore U. game? It's the last game for Cap'n Rodgers, Dudley and Monahan, and the least we can do is to get the best cheering section together that Loyola has ever seen.

Incidentally, it's the last cheer that "Cholie" Pick, the Demon Cheer Leader will grace with his antics.

Meade, Mace, Healy, Sybert, Murphy and McCardell, the Happy Seniors, went to New York last week. "To see the Greyhounds play," they said. Well, of course, that's all right.

The younger generation is improving. So far only one aspirant has shown up at the Grand Annual Pool Tournament with a tank suit. He got his cue later, however.

The Dean grants two holidays in a row. It snows on the first of them; ten inches worth. No connection, of course. Just a coincidence.

Conditions seem to remain pretty much the same at Loyola—$2.00. No reduction for large consumers.

The greatest mortality was sustained in the Inorganic Chemistry class. Twenty-one precipitated out of a possible forty. However most of them will be soluble under the above conditions.

STUDENTS ATTEND DAILY MASS DURING LENT

During the season of Lent, an edifying custom has been revived in the form of daily Mass in the Chapel. Each morning at eight thirty, we find a number of students at Mass, calling down the blessing of God on their daily work and on the activities of the entire college.

It is gratifying to see how willing some are to sacrifice a few moments of sleep on cold winter mornings to be present at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. This act of sacrifice on the part of the students will not pass unrewarded but will be repaid manifold by Him Whom they honor.

N. CORCORAN ELECTED ALUMNI PRESIDENT

Amendments to Constitution Receive Unanimous Approval

At the annual elections held by the Alumni Association in the Science Building, Evergreen, on the evening of February 19, Mr. Neil Corcoran of the Class of 1916 was chosen as President, Clarence J. Caulfield as first Vice-President, and J. Leo Ireton as second Vice-President.

Messrs. L. C. Roche, M. F. Delea and T. N. Ferciot were elected to the Board of Directors. According to an amendment to the Constitutions subsequently and unanimously adopted at the meeting, the members of this Board will hold office until the Fall of 1932.

Mr. Charles C. Lerch, the retiring President, had been selected by the Nominating Committee to run for a second term of office, but before the elections was forced to decline the honor. Due to business duties which frequently call him away from Baltimore, Mr. Lerch deemed it to be for the best interests of the Association to yield his chances to one better able to keep in close touch with the members of the Alumni. Mr. Corcoran was then nominated from the floor.

The usual formalities were observed in escorting the newly elected President to the Chair. In a felicitous address Mr. Corcoran thanked the Association for the honor conferred.

FRESHMAN WINS FIRST PRIZE IN YEAR BOOK "AD" DRIVE

The Green and Gray "ad" contest, originally scheduled to close on Monday, February 11th, was brought to a close at noon Monday, February 18th.

Congratulations are extended by the editors of the year book to the winner of the contest and those who excelled in getting ads. J. Moran of Freshman, followed closely by Martin Knott of Junior, came out first in the contest. The staff decided to award a prize of $10.00 to both of these men. Edward Storck of Freshman was also an ardent worker and a "right hand man" to J. Moran. Mr. Knott's individual efforts in the advertisement contest won for him a place on the business staff.

The efforts of the "ad" workers were far superior to anything the Green and Gray editors had expected. And it is due to the efforts of all who obtained advertisements for the year book that the staff can

FR. L. K. PATTERSON LECTURES ON ROMAN QUESTION

On Wednesday morning, February 20th, the entire Student Body had the pleasure of listening to an interesting and instructive lecture on the Roman Question given by Rev. L. K. Patterson, S. J.

Rev. L. K. Patterson, S. J.

Father Patterson, Professor of History at Woodstock College, and an authority in the field of History, was for three years a student at Christ College, Cambridge, and attained during his studies there the highest honors conferred by that most renowned University.

At the beginning of his lecture Father Patterson made it clear that he was viewing the Roman Question merely as an historian. In clear and concise language he traced the historical background and events which led up to the fall of the Papal States.

The Lecturer attributed in great measure the final plunder of the Papal States to the secret societies of Italy, which by propaganda and professorships in the leading Universities sowed the seed which was later to germinate in the overthrow of the Pope's temporal power. The efforts of the "Liberal" element, working mainly through the "Carbonari" and other secret societies, were directed against Austria and Bourbon domination.

The generous efforts of Pope Pius IX to meet the demands of moderate nationalism were doomed to failure owing to the ingratitude and intrigues of the extreme radical elements. The cause of United Italy found a champion in Mazzini and Pope Pius IX was forced to flee Rome and only with the coming of Cavour into power did he return to Rome.

"Cavour," said Father Patterson, "who is portrayed by most historians as a national hero, was in truth an able leader but at the same time an utterly unscrupulous one. It

LOYOLA QUINT TAKES CLOSE TILT FROM W. MD.

Extra Period Decision Goes to Greyhounds 33-32

The Greyhounds journeyed to Westminster on the night of February 19 to play the Western Maryland Terrors in their own den. Remembering the close contest in their first engagement of the season the Green and Gray quint came prepared for a battle and succeeded in returning to Evergreen with a one point victory but only after an extra session.

The game was a thriller from beginning to end. Western Maryland jumped into the lead at the first whistle and had secured eight points before Loyola scored. The Greyhounds, however, were not to be denied with Liston leading the attack and at half time had decreased the Terrors' lead to one point at 12-13.

When the second half began both teams were keyed to a high pitch. The Terrors maintained a slight lead for the greater part of the second period. But with five minutes remaining to play the Greyhounds rose to the occasion and in a wonderful rally tied the score for the first time at 22 all.

With only seconds remaining to play and the Greyhounds enjoying a two point lead the Loyola rooters felt that victory was theirs, but Van Buren, of the Terrors, in a last des-

JUNIOR PROM COMMITTEE SELECT MAY 10 FOR DANCE

Already rumors and rumors of rumors are being whispered about the campus concerning the prospects for the coming Junior Prom. Everyone seems to have some valuable information and all are eager to talk, except the Juniors. They, wise in the ways of the Ballyho, remain provocingly silent and only arouse curiosity and excitement by their mysterious and silent demeanor.

The only information that the editor can find is this; that everything is progressing wonderfully and even at this early date several definite arrangements have been made.

Father Geoghan, Professor of Junior Philosophy, has very kindly consented to act in the capacity of Faculty Advisor. The various committees have been selected and are now busily engaged in collecting all the "dope." But most important of all is the fact that May 10 will be the date. All the almanacs have been consulted and the Date Committee even went so far as to bribe the Weather Man to prophecy, "fair and warmer."

CONGRATULATIONS

The GREYHOUND is pleased to note the selection of Mr. Neil Corcoran '16 to the presidency of the Alumni Association at their recent meeting.

The president-elect is admirably fitted for his new position, having always manifested a deep interest in his Alma Mater and given his best efforts on every occasion. His election meets with enthusiastic approval of the entire Student Body.

It has always been the policy of the GREYHOUND to sponsor a closer relation between the Alumni and the Student Body and we pledge wholeheartedly to support Mr. Corcoran in his undertakings to further the interests of the association and the college.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The question has been asked by a number of the more recent members of the College: "Have we a Student Council at Evergreen?" The answer comes back rather hesitantly and accompanied by evident signs of embarrassment: "Why yes; in fact we started it last year, but to-day it seems to exist in name only."

A Student Council was organized last year but to date has failed to function properly, or rather, has failed to function at all. Its failure has been due to a lack of necessary interest on the part of the Student Body. This Council is essentially a Student organization and depends for its life and success on the interest and activity of the students.

There are many purposes for which the student council may serve, namely, to act as an intermediary between Faculty and Student Body, to use its influence in maintaining a high Loyola spirit and to represent the Student Body in matters of severe discipline.

It is not too late to begin and to take advantage of the means offered by this organization to solve satisfactorily the difficulties which needs must arise during the course of the school year. Let the students then urge their respective class representatives to request the Council to call a general meeting of the students for the purpose of renewing interest in this worthy school activity.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE GAME

It has been several years since Loyola last produced a championship basketball team. But this year finds her back in the position of leader in the State race, a place which she was not unaccustomed to hold in former years.

An ominous cloud, however, hovering over the Chesapeake Bay in the direction of Chestertown, seriously questions Loyola's right to continue basking in the sunlight of success and glory; the Flying Pentagon is the one remaining serious obstacle in the Greyhound's quest for the mythical crown.

Although Washington College has always been a formidable foe, yet we have good reasons to believe that our team will return from the Eastern Shore victorious. But the Greyhounds need the loyal, lusty lung-power of the Student Body to carry them through the "rough spots" and it is hoped that the Student Body will appear on the scene 100 per cent down in Chestertown on Saturday night.

CHAIRMAN OF DEBATE

Russell E. Rozea, '32, President of the George C. Jenkins Debating Society, had the honor of acting as chairman of the Loyola High School Prize Debate held at Loyola High School on Wednesday evening, February 20th. In his several speeches delivered on that occasion, Mr. Rozea proved himself worthy of the honor bestowed upon him and reflected glory upon the Society which has entrusted to him its highest office.

THE GREYHOUND in the name of the Student Body wishes to congratulate Mr. Rozea on the splendid manner in which he officiated at the Loyola High School debate, for deeds such as these reflect honor on the College and also augurs well for the future of debating at Loyola.

BOOK REVIEWS

Do you like a book that is unusual, that is different? Do you like a book that has a style so simple, so exquisite that you feel as though you were having a confidential chat with its author? If you do—then read "Other Ways And Other Flesh" by Edith O'Shaughnessy.

Mrs. O'Shaughnessy has spent a great portion of her life in the little Austrian village of Rankweil in the Austrian Tyrol. She knows its inhabitants intimately and through the years she has won their love and confidence. Her impressions of these simple country folks eking out their existence, living their life, having their hopes, ambitions, joys, sorrows all within the radius of a few short miles, she has recorded in a charming intimate manner for us to read.

Living in a world of their own, undisturbed and uninterested in the events taking place outside their walls, the people of Rankweil live on and on. The old folks die and the young ones grow old, but the customs of forgotten centuries are clung to with a deathlike grip.

Mrs. O'Shaughnessy knew these people well. There is Karolina and Rosa, the two quaint old sisters who manage the Inn of the Trout. Day in and day out for fifty years they thought the same things and did the same things in the same old way. There was Doctor Petrus with the mind of a genius and a body slowly wasting away. With a sweet sympathy that is born only of a complete understanding, Mrs. O'Shaughnessy tells us the story of his life and the love which was denied him.

There is the simple little tale of the Apothecary's Wife, Catarina. Married to a man "as dry as the driest of his own powders," she gave her love to a "compagnon" who tended the little apothecary shop during her husband's recuperation from the effects of a fall. What could be a more simple tale? Yet, in its telling, through the magic of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy's words, we feel as though a curtain had been drawn aside and we were actually witnessing the love affair.

We have the tale of the Tailor's Wife, and the Forester's Wife, and the sweet charming, Sister Alexis, the peasant girl who had become the Mother Superior of the hospice some distance down the valley. There is the legend of "The Morning Star" and young Toni Matt who had sought the star-woman.

Tales such as these breathing of intimacy with "Other Ways And Other Flesh," written with a charm and simplicity of expression that is truly superb comprise a book which will go far toward dispelling the loneliness of a winter's evening. Some night when you have the time, curl up in a comfortable chair, light your friendly old pipe and read "Other Ways And Other Flesh." You'll have a wonderful evening.

ferred upon him and pledged his whole-hearted efforts in furthering the interests of the College and the Association.

The amendments to the Constitution proposed and voted on at this meeting met with the unanimous approval of the members of the Association.

ALUMNI NOTES

K. of C. Initiation

Two Loyola Alumni were present at the K. of C. Council 205, "Third Degree" ceremonies which took place on February 17th. One thoroughly enjoyed himself, but the other did not have quite so fine a time. Issac George is a "degree officer." Jack Cummings was one of the unfortunate candidates.

Alumni Match Baskets

The gym floor was haunted by some rather substantial "ghosts of the past" after the Catholic U. game on February 14th. Isaac George refereed an impromptu game between two hastily organized teams of the Alumni. Among the former Loyola floor luminaries participating were Jim Lacy, the Menton brothers, the Cummings brothers and "Doc" O'Connor. The referee was declared by one and all to be a much better after-dinner speaker.

At Alumni Meeting

What the speakers had to say:

Clarence Caufield

Mr. Caufield bitterly deplored the lack of interest shown by too many of the members of the Alumni and suggested the adoption of a policy to arouse them to an active interest in things Loyola.

J. Preston W. McNeal

A very worth-while proposal was made by Mr. McNeal and it was referred to the Executive Committee which will investigate the details involved and will determine on a plan of action.

A. J. Bourbon

Mr. Bourbon proposed at this meeting the adoption by the members of the Association of an "Educational Campaign." By personal contact and by newspaper publicity the members of the Alumni could do much to bring Catholic Students and the parents of these students to the realization of the need of Catholic higher education.

Ways and means to carry out this suggestion were discussed from the floor by many members of the Alumni and the proposal was finally handed over to the Executive Committee for consideration.

Isaac George

Through the suggestion of Mr. George, who has been intensely interested in, and always in a practical way, Loyola Athletics, won the consent of the Alumni Association to sponsor a dinner to the Basketball team which is having such a successful season.

Communion Breakfast

Plans for the reorganization of the Communion Breakfast and for the annual Banquet met with the approval of all.

Amendments

The Alumni voted the acceptance of the amendments which in effect will prolong the ordinary term of all offices to which members were elected at this ballot until at least

C. U. FALLS VICTIM AGAIN TO GREYHOUND ATTACK 50-32

Loyola played its last home game before the Northern trip, Thursday night at Evergreen and for the second time this season administered a decisive defeat to Catholic University, 50-32.

Just to show the home fans that their first victory was no upset and to dispel all doubt as to their superiority the Greyhounds unloosened their great offensive power and bombarded the Brooklanders' basket for a total of 50 points, the highest score of the season.

Regaining their old time speed, the Greyhounds jumped into the lead a few seconds after the first whistle when Captain Rodgers scored from mid-floor. Then followed basket after basket with Curtis and Twardowicz doing most of the scoring until the score stood 23-6 in favor of the Green and Gray team. At this point Coach Comerford decided to send in his reserves. Catholic University had failed to score a field against the regulars.

The reserves displayed splendid form and on baskets by Bunting, Alminde and Boyd Loyola's count increased to 33 while Catholic U. was held to four field goals, making the score 33-14 at half time.

Catholic University came back in the second half determined to check the Green and Gray and due mostly to the eye of Walsh, C. U.'s clever guard, they kept pace with the Greyhounds during this period.

"Utz" Twardowicz led the pack with six baskets and two fouls. Dudley and Curtis accounted for three field goals apiece; Frank's passing was exceptionally brilliant, figuring in much of the scoring, while "Ken" was consistently getting the jump at center.

perate effort shot the ball from mid-floor and the game ended in a deadlock at 27 all.

In the extra period Loyola took the lead, when Liston the star of the contest, scored a field goal and Twardowicz added a foul shot. Wellinger, Western Maryland's leading scorer, sank a basket but his shot was matched by Dudley with a field goal and a foul. Again Van Buren found the cords for a basket and cut the Greyhounds' lead to two points. But time was fast drawing to a close and the best efforts of the Terrors were good for only one point as the final whistle sounded to give Loyola the game by the slim margin of one point at 33-32 in a contest replete with all the thrills of basketball.

FRESHMEN LEAD IN INTER-CLASS LEAGUE

The first round of the Interclass Basketball League came to a close when the Freshmen were crowned "First half" champs by taking the Juniors over the hurdles to the score of 25-15.

The Sophs and Seniors opened the second round Monday which will not close until March 6th. By that time each of the individual classes will have met and a definite line will then be obtained on the teams.

At this writing the Freshmen have the only undefeated quint in the College and naturally loom up as the possible champs, but there is no telling what may happen in this second round as most of the games are very closely contested and the winner is in doubt right up to the final whistle.

The Schedule Second Round:
Feb. 25th. Sophs vs. Seniors
Feb. 26th. Juniors vs. Pre Med
Feb. 27th. Freshmen vs. Sophs
Mar. 6th. Pre Med vs. Seniors
Mar. 7th. Sophs vs. Juniors
Mar. 8th. Seniors vs. Fresh

LOYOLA LOSES THREE GAMES ON NORTHERN INVASION

The Greyhounds met a Tartar in the form of their Northern foes and tasted bitter defeat in three out of four games.

The first stop on the Northern invasion was at Philadelphia, where Villanova was encountered on Wednesday night, February 20! The Greyhounds, fresh from a very successful season at home, were surprised by a rejuvenated Villanova quint and suffered a 28-19 loss in the first game of the trip.

With their strength sapped by the gruesome Western Maryland game, the night before, and the long train ride, the Green and Gray quint did not display the type of basketball they are capable of under ordinary conditions and trailed throughout the greater part of the contest.

Loyola continued her stay in Philadelphia and evened the count in her invasion of the Quaker City by defeating St. Joseph's quint 29-21 in an interesting game.

The first half saw both teams fighting desperately to gain the upper hand and the lead changed hands frequently until Twardowicz and Liston sank shots which placed Loyola in a lead that resulted in a 29-21 victory.

Utz Twardowicz was the individual star of the game, amassing a total of 13 points for the Greyhounds, followed closely by Bill Liston, who added 9 points to the victory.

From Philadelphia the Greyhounds journeyed to South Orange, N. J., on the third leg of their trip and lost a thrilling contest to Seton Hall.

The Greyhounds had piled up a commanding lead in the first half and at the intermission enjoyed a 25-19 lead. But in the second half Seton Hall gradually cut the Green and Gray's lead and with only two minutes to go jumped into a lead which gave them 38-37 victory as the final whistle blew.

The Greyhounds concluded their Northern invasion as guests of Savage College in New York and were defeated in a free-scoring contest.

The Greyhounds were unable to stem the offensive of the Metropolitanans and at half time were on the short end of a 25-17 score. Loyola fought desperately to cut this lead in the second half but their last efforts were always met with a spurt on the part of Savage and the game ended in a 50-41 defeat.

"WYCLIF AND HUS" SUBJECT FOR HISTORY ACADEMY

Last Thursday, February 14th, Mr. Childress read a paper before the History Academy. His subject was a difficult one, "The Forerunners of the Reformation—Wyclif and Hus." In presenting these two strong characters of history, Mr. Childress stressed especially the similarity of their reforms and heretical views and showed how their heresies contributed much to aggravate the deplorable state of Christianity at that time.

The lecturer showed how the innovations of Wyclif were communicated to Jerome of Prague through the English Queen, at that time a Bohemian princess—how they were eagerly caught up by John Hus who though sincere and serious for reform, overshot the mark and how Hus, meddling in secular affairs, posed as the champion of Bohemian nationality. Mr. Childress dwelt especially on the trial of Hus, showing that the "safe conduct" of Hus by King Sigismund was merely a protection against unlawful aggressions, not against the just verdict of his judges. "After much patience, and literally exhausting all means of kindness and persuasion, the Council declared Hus an incorrigible heretic and handed him over to the secular authority. According to the law of the time he was burned at the stake.

John Hus, with more moderation and less pride, could have become an ornament in that august assembly; instead he poisoned a large part of the Bohemian nation against the Church and stirred up fanatical party strife which lasted for long years even to our own time. On the other hand Wyclif's Lollards, after inflicting some damage on England, faded out of history, though some of their doctrines were resurrected a century later when England was severed from the Church.

The open forum discussion again proved a worth-while half hour. In the course of the discussion Mr. Schlaerth, the Moderator, briefly outlined the predisposing causes of the Protestant Revolution. He laid particular stress on the influence of the Black Death and the exile of the Popes at Avignon.

A Catholic, a Protestant and a Jew have been appointed to advise and encourage religious inclinations at Columbia, following a recent survey in which it was learned that 23% of the student body were without religious convictions of any sort.

The library at Harvard has 2,622,000 volumes, considerably more than that of Yale, which ranks second with 1,838,000.

Four hundred colleges and universities are to participate in a nationwide survey with the purpose of determining whether the commonly known "collegiate" conception really applies to the typical college student.

Knute Rockne attributes the success of his famous Notre Dame football teams more to the absence of the coed than to any other single factor.

On Thursday, February 7, a moving picture entitled "Fixation of Atmospheric Nitrogen" was shown to the chemistry students. Before the film was shown, Father Schmitt gave a short lecture in which he stressed the necessity of a commercial method for the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen. Nitrogen is the chief constituent of fertilizers and explosives.

The Haber-Bosch Process for the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen, as explained by the film, is used to a great extent in Germany. When a mixture of three parts of hydrogen and one part of nitrogen are subjected to a pressure of 200 atmospheres and in the presence of a suitable catalyst, ammonia is produced. The three basic materials for this process are air, water, and coal. From air is obtained the nitrogen for the process by means of the fractional boiling of liquid air. The coal is used to produce water gas, from which hydrogen is taken. The two gases, nitrogen and hydrogen, are stored in huge tanks until needed. When the ammonia gas has been finally obtained, it is absorbed in water.

This ammonia is the base of all synthetic fertilizers, of which there are three types: ammonia nitrogen (ammonium sulphate), nitrate nitrogen (urea). Ammonium sulphate is produced by the Ammonium Sulphate is produced by the interaction of ammonia and sulphuric acid. When coal is heated in the production of coke or distilled in the manufacture of gas, ammonia is one of the products that is given off.

This process is now the most economical one for the fixing of nitrogen, its greatest cost being in the preparation of hydrogen sufficiently pure not to poison the catalyzer.

was he who actually brought about the overthrow of Bourbon and Austrian domination." The final seizure of the Eternal City in 1870 through force and fraud was then recounted. Aided by Garibaldi, states were overthrown and finally on September 20, 1871, the Papal Territory, the rightful possession of the Popes from out the dim early centuries, was plundered. Rome was proclaimed the Capital of United Italy and the Pope was made a virtual prisoner in the Vatican.

The lecture was concluded with some remarks concerning the subsequent history of United Italy until the advent of Mussolini in 1922.
